Conferences

I am trying something new this year by having student-led conferences. We are going to have each child present their own PowerPoint presentation sharing how he/she feels about their education, goals and accomplishments.

I am looking forward to hearing from each child and watching them share their creations with parents. All children should be present at their conference. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call or email me.

Fond Farewell

We would like to wish a fond farewell to one of our Trubyville members: Luke Moorehead is moving to Jacksonville, FL. We will miss him immensely but hope that he will continue to share what is going on in his life via our Wiki.

Conference Schedule

Conferences are quickly approaching, and I am looking forward to sharing with parents all the wonderful things the children have been learning. Friday papers will not go home this week. Please review your conference time.

My scheduled time is:

Science

We are wrapping up our unit on chemistry. Our next unit of study will be electricity. The students will learn all the basics associated with electricity as well as complete some in-depth hands-on experiments with the culminating project of building a flashlight out of everyday household products.
